

27th April – 1st May 2020

Hello for another week!
The email address for 6th class =

sixthclass1@glasheengirls.com

Feel free to contact me with work the girls have done, any questions you may have or just to say hello!

Seesaw activities will all online from Sunday evening. Fingers crossed that they work! You can do them at any pace that you like.

Monday 27th April 2020

English	1. Read Racing Ahead 'The Hands that Built America' pages 232 – 253 2. Answer questions C 3. Read for pleasure
Maths	1. Master Your Maths week 30 2. Busy At Maths page 154 Q2 and 3 Remember BOMDAS in question 3
Irish	Abair Liom page 119 J and K
Seesaw	Task is online

Tuesday 28th April 2020

English	1. Racing Ahead D 2. Read for pleasure
Maths	1. Master Your Maths week 30 2. Busy At Maths page 154 Q4 Remember to divide by the denominator (bottom) and multiply by the numerator (top) Eg = $\frac{3}{4}$ of 120 = $120 \div 4 = 30$ $30 \times 3 = 90$
Irish	Abair Liom page 122 QA You need to see where each verb will go in the messages and then change to Aimsir Fháistineach before you complete it. Remember the ending for regular future tense verbs are fidh/faidh for one syllable verbs and eoidh/óidh for two syllable verbs. Use pages 180 – 182 to check if a verb is irregular in the future tense if you are unsure. This exercise is tricky so don't panic!
Seesaw	Task is online

Wednesday 29th April 2020

English	Tomorrow is Poetry Day Ireland 2020. The theme is There Will Be Time. 1. Read the poem At Dusk below. 2. Answer the following questions. a) Do you like/dislike the poem?
---------	--

	b) What are certain aspects that you like/dislike? c) What message do you think the poet is trying to get across? d) What images are you thinking of in your head? e) Why do you think it falls under the category of 'time'? Remember: Poetry is subjective (this means that every person is going to think and feel differently about it) therefore there are no wrong answers here at all.
Maths	1. Master Your Maths week 30 2. Busy At Maths page 155 Q1 and 2
Irish	Abair Liom page 122 and 123 Q B and C For B: match the question with the correct answer For C: Pick the odd one out.
Seesaw	Task is online

Thursday 30th April 2020

English	Today is Poetry Day Ireland 2020. The theme is There Will Be Time. Write a poem of any kind based on this theme. a) It can be as many stanzas (verses) as you like. b) It can rhyme if you want but it doesn't have to c) There are no major rules for writing poetry so go with the flow with it Maybe coming towards the end of primary school and looking back, growing up or reflections of childhood are nice topics to choose if you are stuck! I'd love to read them when you are done so you can add them to Seesaw or email them to me.
Maths	1. Master Your Maths week 30 2. Busy At Maths page 155 Q 3 and 4
Irish	Learn/practice saying the first 4 questions/answers on page 162 You will need the words below to fill in the blanks!
Seesaw	Task is online

Friday 1st May 2020

English	1. Racing Ahead E and F For F: An abstract noun is something that you cannot touch. Eg love, anger, strength 2. Word study on Seesaw 3. Read for pleasure
Maths	1. Master Your Maths week 30 2. Busy at Maths page 156
Irish	Learn/practice saying the next 4 questions/answers on page 162 You will need the words below to fill in the blanks! The seasons are on page 173
Seesaw	Task is online

At Dusk

By Moya Cannon

Last night, the fox padded along our red-brick street
under yellow fan-lights;

last week an otter,
curved and sleek as a cat slipped across the pier in the half-light and went down into the sea, leaving quick prints on stone steps;

last month we saw a wild boar and her three young cross a road before dark and vanish into the briars.

Her path was a track of mud straight down a field from the mountain forest
as it had been, months earlier, a line of hoof-marks in snow and, earlier still,
a crease in summer grass.

The creatures of dusk,
whom we have almost dispossessed,
continue to cross our paths,
continue to bless us.